1 Lectures and Events

Internal

1.1 Screening of Beatus: The Spanish Apocalypse

Friday 5 February (3rd week), 4pm, Weston Library Lecture Theatre. All welcome. Running time 77 minutes; followed by a conversation with director Murray Grigor and co-producer Hamid Shams. Enquiries to alexandra.franklin@bodleian.ox.ac.uk

A documentary film fourteen years in the making, Beatus: The Spanish Apocalypse explores the art, history and cultural ramifications of one of Spain's greatest national treasures, the corpus of illuminated and illustrated medieval manuscripts based on the 8th-century apocalyptic commentary by the monk Beatus of Liébana. Filmed on location in Spain, the documentary journeys through the towns, villages, routes, churches and monasteries behind the making of the 27 surviving manuscripts.

Professor John Williams, who has devoted over three decades to the study of the Beatus manuscripts, acts as the documentary's guide and historian. The film follows Professor Williams on this literal journey across Spain and figurative journey into the past, as he recreates the historical, cultural, religious and artistic context in which the 8th- to 12th-century Spanish monks lived. Professor Williams also puzzles together connections from these works of art to present-day Spain, showcasing how much the Beatus manuscripts have shaped Spanish national identity and its artistic and cultural heritage.

1.2 Critical Theory Reading Group Hilary Term: Post-1960 Literature, Culture, Aesthetics: Transdisciplinary Debates

Tuesdays 4-5:30 pm, Weeks 1, 3, 5, 7, English Faculty (Seminar Room B)

Following on a successful debut in Michaelmas, this critical theory reading group encourages collaboration and debate between Faculty and graduate students conducting research in post-1960 literature, visual cultures and aesthetics, history and cultural history. There are arguably too few dedicated forums at Oxford enabling Humanities scholars to theorise and historicise the post-1960 period through a more interdisciplinary and transcultural lens. The overriding aim of this new reading group, then, is to develop more granular vocabularies and research methods across Humanities disciplines for theorising connections between the local and the global in the post-1960 world.

While all readings will be in English (some in translation), scholars working in other linguistic traditions are warmly encouraged to join and contribute. Faculty and graduate students from any relevant discipline are very welcome, so please do spread the word.

We will be meeting Tuesday afternoons in the English Faculty in weeks 1, 3, 5, and 7. in Hilary term 2016. Please e-mail courtney.traub@worc.ox.ac.uk with any questions-- and make sure to join our dedicated Facebook page for updates and continued discussion: <https://www.facebook.com/groups/956118834436496>

About the book:

In Knowledge Machines: Digital Transformations of the Sciences and Humanities, Eric Meyer and Ralph Schroeder argue that digital technologies have fundamentally changed research practices in the sciences, social sciences, and humanities. Meyer and Schroeder show that digital tools and data, used collectively and in distributed mode—which they term e-research—have transformed not just the consumption of knowledge but also the production of knowledge. Digital technologies for research are reshaping how knowledge advances in disciplines that range from physics to literary analysis.

Meyer and Schroeder map the rise of digital research and offer case studies from many fields, including biomedicine, social science uses of the Web, astronomy, and large-scale textual analysis in the humanities. They consider such topics as the challenges of sharing research data and of big data approaches, disciplinary differences and new forms of interdisciplinary collaboration, the shifting boundaries between researchers and their publics, and the ways that digital tools promote openness in science.

This book considers the transformations of research from a number of perspectives, drawing especially on the sociology of science and technology and social informatics. It shows that the use of digital tools and data is not just a technical issue; it affects research practices, collaboration models, publishing choices, and even the kinds of research and research questions scholars choose to pursue. Knowledge Machines examines the nature and implications of these transformations for scholarly research.

Free and all welcome. No advance booking required, please just come along and seats will be allocated on a first-come, first-served basis.

1.14 Modern Greek Seminar: Realisms in Postwar Greek Cinema

Thursday 21 January 5 pm.

Ground Floor Lecture Room, 47, Wellington Square.

In this week's Modern Greek Seminar, Professor Vrasidas Karalis (Sir Nicolas Laurantus Professor of Modern Greek and Chair of the Modern Greek Department, Sydney University), will speak on Realisms in postwar Greek cinema.

One of the most prolific writers on Greek culture from the Byzantine to the contemporary period, Prof. Karalis has published work that combines literary scholarship, philosophical analysis, cultural criticism and autobiographical reflection. Among his most recent books are The Demons of Athens: Reports from the Great Devastation (2014), A History of Modern Greek Cinema (2012), Conversations with Mr Manoly Lascaris (2008), and the edited volumes Cornelius Castoriadis and Radical Democracy (2014) and Power, Judgment and Political Evil: In Conversation with Hannah Arendt (2010). He has recently completed a monograph on realism in Modern Greek cinema, and is currently writing a history of postclassical Greek philosophy and an analysis of the work of Greek directors of the Diaspora, from Elias Kazan and John Cassavetes to George Miller.

All welcome.

'Speaking' and 'belonging' have a particular salience as indices of intimacy in a remote corner of north-west Greenland where connectedness is constantly reinforced through a distinct commonality of expression and certain social practices, such as very frequent visiting of one another, story-telling, recycling of names and a shared monistic philosophy. The Inugguit define themselves by a repertoire of communicative and behavioural strategies which are used to ensure that one is accepted in a supportive kin group – the perennial social and personal imperative for each member of the group. This paper shows how despite social and climatic upheaval, these practices remain, but that the hunters' 'symbiotic' relationship with nature is eroding as the loss of sea ice means they can no longer live like the animals they hunt.

1.17 Lydia Davis at the Rothermere American Institute on 5-6 May

Man Booker International Prize winner Lydia Davis will deliver the Esmond Harmsworth Lecture in American Arts and Letters on the afternoon of 5 May at the Rothermere American Institute. Davis's title is "Learning Norwegian".

Davis's rich, remarkable stories have been acclaimed by her contemporaries including Dave Eggers and Jonathan Franzen (who calls her "a magician of self-consciousness"). She is a writers' writer and certainly one of the greats of contemporary literature in English. Colleagues in English currently teaching Paper 4 (Literature in English, 1910-Present Day) may want to add Davis's work to the term's syllabus.

A full list of Davis's awards and honours would be far too lengthy to include here. But one of her accomplishments will be of particular interest to English and Modern Languages faculty and students: following in the footsteps of James Joyce who learned to read Norwegian so he could read Ibsen, Davis has taught herself Norwegian. Not only that: she's done it by reading Dag Solstad, one of Norway's most celebrated contemporary novelists. Her lecture will take us through the fascinating process and idiosyncrasies of this endeavour, and will reflect on the place of other languages in contemporary writing in English.

On May 6, there will be an informal and participative writing seminar for Oxford students. This will be an opportunity for them to respond and pose questions about the craft of writing, for example. Please email enquiries@rai.ox.ac.uk to be added to the event mailing list.

On 11 Feb at 5pm Andrea Wulf, 2015 Costa Biography Award Winner, will be talking about The Invention of Nature: Alexander von Humboldt's New World with Eduardo Posada-Carbó (Latin American Studies) and Yadvinder Malhi (Geography) at the RAI.

1.18 Bodleian Libraries iSkills Workshops for Hilary Term Weeks 1 & 2

Open Access, Referencing and Reference Management Software

In weeks 1 & 2 we are running the following iSkills Workshops on Open Access, Referencing and Reference Management Software:

Bodleian iSkills: Open Access Oxford - what's happening? \(Thursday 21st January 11.00-12.00; repeated Thursday 18th February 14.00-15.00; Tuesday 1st March 11.00-12.00\) Weeks 1, 5 & 7

A briefing on open access publishing and Oxford's position: Green vs. Gold; funder mandates and publisher policies; Oxford Research Archive (ORA) and Symplectic; OA website/ helpline; what's new.

Who is this session for? Research support staff, administrators and librarians, researchers and academics.

Presenter: Juliet Ralph

Venue: Radcliffe Science Library

Referencing: RefWorks for Humanities \(Wednesday 27th January 9.15-12.15\) Week 2

RefWorks is an online tool which allows you to manage your citations/references, insert them into your work as footnotes or in-text citations, automatically generate bibliographies and easily switch between citation styles. This introduction is open to all, but the section on importing references will focus on Humanities examples.

Who is this session for? Postgraduates, researchers.

Presenters: Bethan Jenkins, Helen Matthews, Angela Carritt

Venue: IT Services, 13 Banbury Road

Referencing: Refworks for Sciences and Social Sciences \(Wednesday 27th January 9.15-12.15\) Week 2

RefWorks is an online tool which allows you to manage your references, insert them into your work, automatically generate bibliographies and easily switch between citation styles. This introduction is open to all but the section on importing references will focus on Science/Social Science examples.

Presenters: Nia Roberts, Gigi Horsfield, Angela Carritt

Venue: IT Services, 13 Banbury Road

Referencing: Choosing and using software \(Thursday 28th January 9.15-12.15; repeated Friday 19th February 9.15-12.15\) Weeks 2 & 5

Formatting your in-text citations/footnotes and bibliography correctly for your thesis or publication is a chore. Reference management software makes it easier and saves you time. This introductory session gives an overview of how reference management works, explores the pros and cons of a wide range of reference management packages and gives you the opportunity to try out five different packages so that you can work out which one is best for you. The packages included are RefWorks, EndNote, Zotero, Mendeley, ColWiz and Papers.

Who is this session for? Postgraduates, researchers.

Presenters: Oliver Bridle, Erika Delbeque, Sophie Staves, Pamela Stanworth, Angela Carritt

Venue: IT Services, 13 Banbury Road

Bodleian iSkills: Moving from research question to literature review in the Social Sciences \(Thursday 28th January 14.00-16.00\) Week 2

This 2 hour workshop will be invaluable for researchers hoping to find suitable literature for their literature review, for which a well constructed set of search terms and an understanding of online search engines are prerequisites. This workshop will allow researchers to use their own research questions to build a search and apply it to a range of databases. Techniques for structuring a search will be explained, an overview of key online resources for the social sciences will be given, major search tools will be explored, and strategies for approaching large results sets and sourcing papers will be discussed. This practical workshop will involve paper exercises and online activities using attendees own research topics.

Who is this session for? All DPhil Students and Research Staff in the Social Sciences

Presenter: John Southall

Venue: Social Sciences Library, Manor Road

2 Calls for Papers

2.1 Science at Court, 1285-1450: An interdisciplinary Conference at Newnham College

3-4 June, 2016

Call for Papers:

From the anonymous Middle English Court of Sapience to Nicole Oresme's Livre du ciel et du monde to the lavishly illustrated copies of Pliny's Natural History produced for the Visconti family, medieval scientific discourse was often inflected by – and constructed around – literary, musical, and artistic forms present at court. This conference invites abstracts on what it means to “do science at court” in the late medieval period, particularly in the context of literature, music, and the arts.

How do tradition, law, and power dictate the boundaries of science? How do ethics or political science affect natural philosophy? How do didactic poems or works of counsel, conduct, and governance blur the boundaries between science and mimesis? What is the relationship between empiricism and narrative or visual forms? How does music do mathematical and political work?

Science at Court welcomes proposals on any aspect of art at court in the context of late medieval science.

Due to the generous support of Newnham College, travel subsidies will be available for attendees who may have difficulty obtaining funds.

Please send abstracts to tlb33@cam.ac.uk by 31 January, 2016.

Jobs, Recruitment and Volunteering

3.3 Norton Rose Fulbright - Graduate Schemes & Internships

Global law firm Norton Rose Fulbright have opportunities available for everyone, from first year students to graduates. You do not need to be studying law in order to apply! See below to find out more about the opportunities on offer at one of the world's leading law firms.

First step

The First step programme provides an initial taste of life at Norton Rose Fulbright, helping you decide if law really is the right career for you. It runs for a week and is only for first-year undergraduates. Some of the things you can look forward to include sitting in a practice area, getting involved in high profile work, taking part in skills workshops, and attending social events.

Dates:

Applications: 1 February to 29 February 2016

Programme: 4 April to 8 April 2016

Training contracts

The aim of doing four seats in two years is to get a broad understanding of our work, clients and global reach. Everybody does one in banking, one in corporate and one in disputes, because these three areas form the heart of our practice. Where the other seat is will depend on your interests and ambitions, and is usually a client or international secondment. Trainees are assigned a partner mentor and a trainee buddy, and will attend our exceptional learning and development programmes.

2018 Training contract application deadlines:

01865 270270, Skype us at 'oxfordnightline', or visit our office at 16 Wellington Square. We don't pretend to have all the answers, or try to solve people's problems, but we care about whatever is on your mind and we will listen to whatever you want to talk about without judging or telling you what to do.

Every term we run a training course for people who wish to join our team of volunteers. This teaches the listening and support skills you will need to work for us. Training requires commitment, but is a rewarding and worthwhile experience. It consists of three one-day sessions, either on the Saturdays of 6th, 13th and 20th February or the Sundays of 7th, 14th and 21st February.

If you would like to train to become a Nightline volunteer, please fill out a training form here:

https://docs.google.com/forms/d/1TrhEH2ExLqNjd\_QgvTct169PRRVogqH1qbmTVSxhwQ0/viewform

If you would like more information about the training process, or have any questions, please feel free to get in touch with us at training@oxfordnightline.org, or ring us at (2)70270.

We are also always looking for new volunteers to join our Publicity, Fundraising and Outreach team (PFO). PFO volunteers act as ambassadors for Nightline by talking to students and organising events in their colleges and departments. It is not a large time commitment - you can do as much or as little as you have time for- and there are lots of opportunities to learn valuable skills and play a leading role in informing our publicity strategy. If you've got a flair for publicity or an interest in charity PR, please get in touch at publicity@oxfordnightline.org - we'd love to hear from you!

3.11 Student Minds Course Information

The following courses are available for students with mental health problems:

Positive Minds

This is a 6 week course for students with mild depression. It covers topics ranging from building a social network and staying active to establishing healthy daily routines. For more information, or to register, please email: positiveoxford@studentminds.org.uk

Motivate Me

This 6 week course provides support for students experiencing an eating disorder. The group maintains a pro-recovery atmosphere and to keep conversations supportive, we follow a set of ground rules. For more information or to register, please email: edoxford@studentminds.org.uk

Living with Grief

This peer-support group runs twice a term and is for students who are grieving someone they love. The group is facilitated by a clinical psychologist and enables individuals to connect with others in a similar situation and encourages a focus on emotional processing and self-compassion. For more information please email: kirsten@thelossfoundation.org

Supporting Supporters

This group meets twice a term and is a session that gives people supporting a friend with an eating disorder somewhere to talk and to learn more about what they can do to help. For more information, or to register, please email edoxford@studentminds.org.uk

If you think any of the sessions could be for you, please email the relevant address as soon as you can, thank you!

4 Year Abroad

4.1 Job Opportunities

DISCLAIMER: Please note that the inclusion of vacancies received by the Faculty is a facility to assist students in sourcing possible placements and does not constitute any sort of recommendation of the organisation, or agreement with the content of the vacancies; the Faculty attempts to provide as much information on vacancies available to students as possible and makes every effort to check that the content complies with equality legislation and is otherwise appropriate for student employment but cannot confirm the quality of the experience. Where negative feedback from previous students is received, appropriate action is taken. Students should make every effort to conduct their own research into the opportunities and providers to reassure themselves of the quality of the provision.

The latest job opportunities and internships received by the Faculty can now be found via the new jobs board:
