Internal

1.1 Global Challenges Research Fund Oxford Seminar Series

A series of Global Challenges Research Fund seminars will be held in the Oxford Martin School during April and May (Tuesday, 25th April – 30th May, 4.30 – 6pm).

The seminars will bring together researchers from across the University to discuss the challenges and opportunities with the GCRF and to share ideas for the development of new interdisciplinary research collaborations, across the different Divisions. The aim is to facilitate networking and collaboration in preparation for the upcoming GCRF research funding calls, which should be coming out over the next few months.

Seminars will focus on the following themes:

- Leave no one behind (including health and wellbeing; inclusive and equitable education; clean air, water)
- Support peace and justice (including: reducing poverty and inequality; respect for human rights; reducing conflict and promoting justice)
- Sustainable economies and societies (including: sustainable cities and communities; sustainable livelihoods; environmental change)
- Research uptake working in DAC countries

Sign up here.

Further details on the seminars are on the attached postcard, and here:

1.2 Live Broadcast of the French Presidential Elections

Maison Française d'Oxford, 23rd April – from 6pm

Please join us for the election night! The first round of the French presidential is crucial and far from being predictable this year so we invite everyone who is interested in French politics to stop by and watch the first live results arrive throughout the evening, commented by our special guests. Whether you want to share the excitement or the fear, or learn more about the electoral system in France, the promises of the candidates and the stakes of the election, join us at the Maison Française (and no, it is not that far).

To follow: the second round on the 7th of May, and in-between a very excited afternoon of debates with Oxford politics scholar on the 2nd of May!

(Nota Bene: for practical reasons, the electoral nights will be broadcasted in French – but the debates on the 2nd of May will be in English and open to non-French speakers)

1.4 Equality, Catastrophe, and The Great Dismalizing

Saturday, April 22, 2017 - 2:00pm to 4:00pm
Seminar Room, Radcliffe Humanities Building, Woodstock Road, Oxford, OX2 6GG

The TORCH Crisis, Extremes, and Apocalypse network are hosting a talk on "Equality, Catastrophe, and the Great Dismalizing: Reading Rousseau's Discourse on the Origins of Inequality in light of Recent Work in Human Paleontology, Anthropology, and Economics" with Professor Darrin McMahon (Dartmouth College).

This paper will examine Jean-Jacques Rousseau's Discourse on the Origins of Inequality in light of recent work in human paleontology, anthropology, and economics. This work, which collectively chronicles a dramatic departure from the relative equality of Paleolithic hunter/gatherer societies to the "creation of inequality" in the late Neolithic period, provides a startling confirmation of a number of Rousseau's central insights about the passage of early humans to more complex societies. Rousseau's sobering vision of inequality's end, moreover, bears consideration in light of this same work's reflections on the history of inequality in human societies since the Stone Age.

Audience: Open to all

1.5 The Magic Mountain: An American Portrait of Czesław Miłosz

Wednesday, April 26, 2017 - 7:00pm
Wolfson College, Linton Road, Oxford OX2 6UD
Haldane Room

Harvard University Press are hosting a screening and discussion of 'The Magic Mountain: An American Portrait of Czesław Miłosz'.

In celebration of the publication of 'Miłosz: A Biography' by Andrzej Franaszek, edited and translated by Aleksandra and Michael Parker, published on 24th April 2017, Harvard University Press invites you to a free screening of 'The Magic Mountain: An American Portrait of Czesław Miłosz'.

Weekly Round-Up, 20 April 2017

https://weblearn.ox.ac.uk/access/content/group/modlang/general/weekly_roundup/index.html

Disclaimer: The University of Oxford and the Faculty of Medieval and Modern Languages accept no responsibility for the content of any advertisement published in The Weekly Round-Up. The film is exactly an hour long, and is in English and Polish (with English subtitles). It will be followed by a short panel discussion and a Q&A session with Andrzej Franaszek, the author of Milosz, and the poet's Polish editor, Jerzy Illg.

This fine documentary offers rich insights into the life, thought and work of Czesław Miłosz, who Joseph Brodsky famously described “one of the greatest poets of our time, perhaps the greatest.” Directed by Maria Zmarz-Koczanowicz and scripted by Andrzej Franaszek, it features interviews with and readings by Czesław Miłosz, who shot to international fame in 1980 when he was awarded the Nobel Prize for Literature.

The Magic Mountain includes contributions from many key American admirers of Miłosz's work, including Susan Sontag, Helen Vendler, Jane Hirschfield, and Robert Hass, his translator, as well as input from several of his former students. As well as shedding light on the difficulties and frustrations he experienced living in exile, it contains many warm, humorous sequences, some shot at the poet's home on Grizzly Peak Boulevard, and at UC Berkeley where he taught from 1960 until the early 1990s.

Free to attend, includes a glass of wine. Copies of the book will be available to buy at a discount at the event.

1.10 Bodleian iSkills Workshops in Week 1

Your thesis, copyright and ORA; Moving .from research question to literature review in the Social Sciences; Managing Social Science Research data; Google for academic research; Getting started in Oxford Libraries

We kick off Trinity Term with five iSkills workshops in Week 1. Please follow links to book online for these FREE workshops:

Bodleian iSkills: Managing Social Science Research data \(Tuesday 25 April 10.00-12.00\)

Good research data management is a vital component of academic practice. Part of this is the principle that the data used to develop the arguments and outcomes of your research should where possible be effectively stored, preserved and usable. This session introduces the University's research data policy and outlines the practical impact this will have on the work of researchers. Some of the tools in preparation to meet the requirements will be outlined as well as services that are already available. Main subjects will include: common dangers and pitfalls of digital data; effective organisation of your data; getting the most from your data and producing a data management plan; data creation and funder requirements; preserving data; embargoes and access restrictions; Oxford based tools for research data management (RDM). This session is not only essential during your DPhil but will be invaluable if you plan to continue in the field of research as a career.

Who is this session for? All DPhil Students and Research Staff in the Social Sciences
Presenters: John Southall and Cathy Scutt

Bodleian iSkills: Getting started in Oxford Libraries \(Wed 26 Apr 09.30-12.30\)

An introduction to Oxford Libraries including guidance on which libraries to use; accessing e-journals and other online resources; SOLO and other finding aids and making the most of Library services.

Who is this session for? Anyone who would like an introduction to Oxford Libraries.
Presenters: Angela Carritt and Cathy Scutt

Bodleian iSkills: Your thesis, copyright and ORA \(Wed 26 Apr 14.00-15.00\)

Oxford DPhil students are required to deposit a copy of their thesis in ORA (Oxford University Research Archive). This session will focus on copyright and other issues that DPhil students need to take into account when preparing their thesis for upload to ORA.

Who is this session for? Doctoral research students
Presenters: Jason Partridge and David Watson

Bodleian iSkills: Moving from research question to literature review in the Social Sciences \(Thu 27 Apr 10.00-12.00\)

This 2-hour workshop will be invaluable for researchers hoping to find suitable literature for their literature review, for which a well-constructed set of search terms and an understanding of online search engines are prerequisites. This workshop will allow researchers to use their own research questions to build a search and apply it to a range of databases. Techniques for structuring a search will be explained, an overview of key online resources for the social sciences will be given, major search tools will be explored, and strategies for approaching large results sets and sourcing papers will be discussed. This practical workshop will involve paper exercises and online activities using attendees own research topics.

Who is this session for? All DPhil Students and Research Staff in the Social Sciences
Presenters: Craig Finlay and Helen Worrell

Bodleian iSkills: Google for academic research \(Thu 27 Apr 14.00-16.00\)

Google is often dismissed as being irrelevant to the academic literature search. However, changes to the nature of the dissemination of scholarly research and official information in recent years mean that a wealth of relevant information can be accessed via standard Internet search engines such as Google. Too often however such information is lost amongst thousands of irrelevant, spurious and misleading results. Based on an understanding of how the Google search engine works this practical workshop will show you the basic techniques to quickly filter out high quality academic material from Google searches. Given concerns about the privacy costs of a 'free' search within search engines such as Google, alternative search engines will also be explored and compared, including DuckDuckGo.

Who is this session for? All DPhils and Research Students in the Social Sciences
Presenter: Cathy Scutt

In addition in Weeks 1-8 we are running:

Weekly drop-in sessions to provide face-to-face support and answer all your queries on Open Access, Act on Acceptance and ORA

3.7 WeGoLingo Events Host

My name is Tom Edgar, I am the founder of WeGoLingo language exchanges and I am looking for the new host for our events in Oxford.

Please see my Montpellier events <http://wegolingo.com/en/france/montpellier> and the PDF attached to get a better understanding of what is involved.

To briefly highlight the positives of partnering with WeGoLingo events;

- Exclusive to your school only for your city
- Easy and quick to set up
- Healthy and essentially cost free publicity for your school
- Receive a profit and a part time job

This is a heartfelt and passionate project, I've seen my events benefit so many language learners and I wish to give others the opportunity to learn from one another through WeGoLingo. I hope to find a school that shares this vision and would like to be a part of this as I expand around the world.

4.3 Improve French on the Santiago Way

Improve French on the Santiago Way.

The “Appart’Hôtel des Capucins” and “Gîte d’Etape des Capucins” is looking for French speaking students all year round for a two-month training (agreed with University).

The students will work for the hotel as well for the guesthouse and must speak French fluently.

The students must be motivated, serious and must like the contact with French and foreign guests.

This training is a good way to discover Auvergne area and particularly the town of Le-Puy-en-Velay, one of the main departures of the Santiago Way.

The students will be accommodated and fed. Good working atmosphere and nice guests.

Please visit our website: www.lescapucins.net or contact us: contact@lescapucins.net

4.4 Learn Portuguese in Rio de Janeiro this Summer

Up to 20 students from UK colleges and universities are being invited to participate in the programme for three weeks at a prestigious 105-year-old further and higher education college in Rio whilst being hosted in a student’s family home in a safe neighbourhood.

Portuguese classes are provided for 20 hours per week from Monday to Friday and all students are offered the opportunity to put their Portuguese into practice by volunteering in the community. The visiting students also work as language assistants in the college, helping staff and students to improve their spoken and written English.

The programme is a fantastic short term opportunity for students to improve their Portuguese and test out their teaching skills during the summer holidays whilst also enjoying life in one of the most exciting and flamboyant cities in the world.

This is one programme of a diverse range of international, educational and learning experiences in countries across the world for staff and students at UK schools, colleges, and universities.

You can find out more by visiting our new website <http://worldcitylinks.net/teaching-english-and-learning-portuguese-in-rio/> or contacting matthew@lrcl.net

4.5 Gap Year Opportunities

The International School of Moscow is looking for postgraduate students who might be interested in a Gap Year experience as Teaching Assistants at our school. We would like to advertise the opportunities we are offering among the students of your institution, who might be particularly interested in living and working in Moscow.

The International School of Moscow is a member of the British Schools Foundation, an organisation with schools in Beijing, Nanjing, Guangzhou, Moscow, Kuala Lumpur, Spain and Brazil whose aim it is to offer an excellent standard of British education to international students.
