ST CROSS COLLEGE

RECORD

NUMBER 29  2012
EDITOR’S NOTE

This edition of the St Cross College Record covers the academic year October 2011 to September 2012. I have included reports by most College Officers. I would be pleased to hear from any member of the College past or present who would be prepared to write something for publication. Again I have tried hard to remove errors in Fellows’, Students’ and Members of Common Room entries that have crept in over the years and would be glad to be notified of any errors that remain.

At the end of my first year as Master of St Cross I have come to appreciate more than ever what an interesting, lively, varied and complex community it is. 211 new students from 47 countries came to St Cross at the beginning of the year and 212 brought their time here to a happy conclusion at degree ceremonies through the year.

Professor Christopher Bonell (Sociology and Social Intervention), Dr Laure Zanna (Climate Physics) and, from Pusey House, the Rev Philip Corbett (Theology) joined the college and we look forward to the arrival of Professor Henrietta Harrison (Chinese Studies), Dr Lars-Erik Malmberg (Education), Dr Robert Carlisle (Engineering Science) and Dr Matt Jarvis (Mathematical, Physical and Life Sciences - Astrophysics).

Dr Alison Crowther (History of Art) and Dr Simon Cotter (Mathematics), were Junior Research Fellows from October 2011. Dr Catherine Warnaby, Knoop Junior Research Fellow in Ophthalmology, will also be starting this year. We warmly welcome them to St Cross.

We were pleased to have as Visiting Fellows Dr Doug Nicol (Samir Shamma Visiting Fellow in Islamic Numismatics and Epigraphy), Professor Tony Coady (Crawford Miller Visiting Fellow) and Dr Margret Frenz (Modern History).

Dr Alice Stevenson (Archaeology), Dr Heiko Schiffler (Engineering Science), Dr Daniele Selmi (Physics), Dr Nicola Gardini (Italian), and Professor Peter Kemp

MASTER’S REPORT
(Social Policy) left the college during the year. They take with them our best wishes for their future and our gratitude for the part they have played in college life. Professor Tony Hope (Medical Ethics) was elected Emeritus Fellow on his retirement in 2012.

Death has taken from us Dr Godfrey Tyler (a Fellow from 1969, Emeritus Fellow and generous donor to the college), Dr David Petford (Emeritus Fellow), Dr Ian Allan and Professor Muhsin Mahdi (former Fellows), Mrs Estella Bradley (benefactor), Mrs Muriel Spencer (Associate Member) and Mrs Helen Bridges (Alumna).

The year saw many remarkable achievements. Professor Diarmaid MacCulloch’s great eminence in his field was recognised by the award of a knighthood for services to scholarship in the Queen’s Birthday Honours, a year which also saw his receipt of an honorary doctorate from the University of the South, in Sewanee, Tennessee and his television series ‘How God Made the English’. Dolores Romero Morales was named Professor of Management Science by the Senior Appointment Panel in June 2012 adding to the already impressive tally of professors among our fellowship. The Oxford Centre for Islamic Studies, which originated in St Cross, received its royal Charter at a ceremony hosted by the Prince of Wales in St James’s Palace. Our fellow Dr Margaret Yee organised a spectacularly successful debate between Professor Richard Dawkins and the Archbishop of Canterbury which was seen by hundreds of thousands of people around the globe. Dr Mick Blowfield organised a further series of St Cross talks, including a fascinating and inspiring evening with Ingrid Betancourt, the Colombian presidential candidate who spent six and a half years as a captive of FARC.

This was also a successful year for sport. The Wolfson-St Cross Women’s First Eight won blades in Torpids and the Wolfson-St Cross men’s football team won the MCR Football Cuppers. Kelsey Ida, an MSc student in Global Governance and Diplomacy, won the Varsity relay race across the Channel with the Oxford University Swimming Club. Adam Lewandowski, a 3rd year DPhil student reading Cardiovascular Medicine, took part to the Blues 800m race in the 138th Oxford versus Cambridge Varsity Athletics Match; he was the first Dark Blue and second runner overall across the finishing line.

There were college teams for Water Polo, Table Football, rowing, Football, Cricket, Basketball and Rugby and the college was represented at Varsity level in Dancesport, Water Polo, Rowing, Cycling, Swimming, Equestrianism, Canoe and Kayak, Karate, Judo, Fencing, Mountain Biking, Surfing, Morris Dancing and Gaelic Football.

Such a busy and numerous academic community requires more and better accommodation than the current buildings can provide. During the year a brief was drawn up for new West and North wings to complete the college’s Western Quad. Our hope is to provide fifty new bedrooms, so as to increase the number of students living on our central site from under 20 to more than 60. This should bring a renewed buzz to the place, making dinners and events of all kinds livelier and more viable and in the long term, by replacing rented rooms by ones owned by the college, place its finances on a firmer footing. At the same time the agreed brief seeks a new library, with three times as many workspaces as the present one, a number of meeting and teaching rooms and a small lecture theatre, all of which will promote the intellectual as well as the social life of the college. Four architectural practices were shortlisted: Niall McLaughlin Architects whose recent work includes a new student building for Somerville on the Radcliffe Observatory Quarter, Wilkinson Eyre who designed the Earth Sciences building and are currently working on the New Bodleian, Walters and Cohen who recently completed the Shirley Sherwood Gallery of Botanic Art at Kew and Pringle Richards Sharratt who were responsible both for the refurbishment of and the new building at the Pitt Rivers Museum. The brief called for a ‘new building which should seem a natural companion and complement to the existing buildings, enhancing them, the garden and the surrounding townscape…..’. Many members of college met and talked to the architects to help inform the design process and the winner of the competition will be announced in the Autumn of 2012.

To achieve this ambitious scheme, the College is seeking the support of all its members and friends. Engagement with Alumni is of course key to this. Under Laura King’s direction Abi Tompkins, Alex Rayner (Student President) and Sheel Jagani conducted a successful telethon in the new year. A reunion event in New York, held jointly with Wolfson and Green Templeton, went well and the Winter Drinks in London, Fred’s lunch and Encaenia, held on one of the rare perfect days of summer, were enjoyed by all. The St Cross Alumus/a of the Year Award went jointly to Bronwen Everill (MSt European Archaeology, 2005) and Jonathan Gorrie (MPhil Modern Chinese Studies, 2005) in recognition of their creation of a new prize for St Cross students, the Collingswood prize for history. The recipient for 2012-2013 is Annie Devenish, who is currently studying for a DPhil in History.

Significant bequests from Miss Mary Tregear FBA, Emeritus Fellow of St Cross, Keeper of Eastern Art at the Ashmolean and President of the Oriental Ceramics Society; and Mrs Estella Bradley will go towards the new building. We plan to record their generosity by naming a room after each of them. We have also received particularly generous donations from Mr Walter Arader, Mr Graham Arader, Mrs Helen Brown, Professor Tony Hope, Professor Peter Mackridge, Dr Glenn Swafford, Professor Bernard Tinker, Ms Anne Vandenabeele, Professor David Warrell, Mr Robin Wells, and the Baroness Olga Knoop Trust Fund for Ophthalmology.

Finally I would like to pay tribute to all those who make the college work - our bursar and her team, who have brought the college to a position where it can face a big project with reasonable confidence, our Senior Tutor and the Academic Office for all that they do to select and support our students, our excellent staff and our wonderful

At the time of going to press, the following Pen Portraits have been provided by the new Fellows.

Chris Bonell grew up in West Bromwich in the West Midlands. He gained a BA in Social and Political Sciences from King’s College, Cambridge before gaining Masters degrees in sociology as well as epidemiology and a PhD in sociology from various...
London institutions. As well as working the NHS, voluntary sector and central government, he has held academic appointments at the Institute of Education, University of London, and the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine. His research focuses on the effects on health in schools and interventions to promote this. Methodologically he is interested in evaluation and other research integrating quantitative and qualitative data.

Philip Corbett originally from the North East of England grew up in Japan, South Korea and China before returning to Durham to go to school. He read divinity at the University of St Andrews before reading for a degree in liturgy at Yale University. In 2004 he came up to Keble to read an MPhil in Ecclesiastical History. He was selected to be trained for the priesthood in 2006 and spent two years at the College of the Resurrection, Mirfield. He was ordained deacon in 2008 and priest in 2009 and served as assistant-curate in the parish of Worksop Priory in Nottinghamshire. He currently serves as Priest-Librarian and Chaplain on the Chapter of Pusey House. His research interests include sacramental theology, liturgy and 19th century church history.

Henrietta Harrison is now an expert on the history and culture of modern China, but she began her academic career reading Classics at Newnham College Cambridge. Graduating in 1989 (at the height of the Tiananmen Protests in China) she then received a Kennedy Scholarship to study for an MA in Regional Studies East Asia at Harvard where she originally hoped to compare ancient civilisations but became attracted by the study of modern history. She returned to Oxford where she did a DPhil in Oriental Studies at St Antony’s College and moved to St Anne’s as a JRF before taking up a post in Chinese Studies at the University of Leeds. In 2006 she returned to Harvard as a professor in the History department. Recently she has worked on the history of Shanxi province in north China, writing the biography of a Confucian scholar who kept a record of village life in the early twentieth century and then a history of a village that has been Catholic since its foundation in the seventeenth century. Now as she returns to Oxford to take up a position in the Chinese Studies Institute she is beginning a new project on the interpreters for the first British embassy to China in the eighteenth century.

Laure Zanna as born and grew up in the South France and holds French and Israeli citizenships. She obtained a BSc from Tel Aviv University and a MSc from the Weizmann Institute of Science. She subsequently moved to the US to attend graduate school at Harvard University. Her main research focused on mechanisms of low-frequency variability and predictability in the Atlantic sector. In April 2009, after obtaining her PhD in Climate Dynamics from Harvard, she joined the Oxford Physics Department as an Oxford Martin Fellow and was appointed as a Junior Research Fellow at Balliol College. During her fellowship, she explored how to combine theory and observations in order to quantify uncertainties associated with the predictions of temperatures. She also has developed an interest in understanding climate feedbacks involving the interaction between dynamical and biogeochemical processes. In October 2011, she was appointed as a University Lecturer in Climate Physics. Her current areas of interest include understanding and parameterizing high latitudes turbulent processes crucial for the large-scale ocean circulation and climate, using stochastic dynamics to account for model errors in climate predictions, low-frequency climate variability and predictability, and quantifying ocean-carbon-climate feedbacks.

The past academic year has been an exciting time for St Cross College. The arrival of a new Master is often a time of renewed interest in one’s College and this year has proved no exception, with increased Alumni participation, both in person at our annual events and virtually through our social media and online channels.

We were delighted to welcome Alumni and friends to the College’s various reunion events throughout the past year; the Winter Drinks, Fred’s Lunch and Encaenia in particular. A highlight was the St Cross North American reunion event held at the Harvard Club of New York City in April 2012. The evening was held in collaboration with two other graduate colleges (Green Templeton & Wolfson) giving members the opportunity to make new friends as well as meet up with those held in long standing. Preparations are already underway for another joint event in Madrid during the University’s European Alumni reunion weekend in April 2013 (details to follow shortly), as well as another event in NYC when the University returns in 2014.

In addition to networking and social events, members had the opportunity to join a number of visits and activities over the past year, such as a visit to Waddesdon Manor in April and an outing to the Bodleian Library to watch the touring production of Hamlet by the company from Shakespeare’s Globe in July.

A very special event was held in late November 2011 as the College commemorated the 60th birthday of the late Dr Hélène La Rue with a musical concert. The performers included her pupils and colleagues, as well as College members and rising musical stars from the wider University. Proceeds from the concert were donated to the Hélène La Rue Scholarship fund, which will make its first award in the coming year. St Cross is proud to be able to offer support to its students thanks to the generosity of its members. The gratitude of the College was conveyed to our donors during two special occasions this year, the Audrey Blackman Society lunch and the 1965 Club dinner, at which those leaving the College a legacy and our most generous donors (respectively) were honoured.

The past year has seen a number of improvements at St Cross. As you may have noticed, the College launched a new website in the summer of 2012, which we hope will be a valuable tool to College members and Alumni alike. Furthermore, the College has migrated to a new Alumni records database, DARS, which is offered by the University. Not only will this new database give St Cross greatly enhanced technology, but also working with the University in this manner will improve our communications with Alumni, by respecting the various connections our members have across the various colleges and departments. Members may also have noticed an increased presence across various social media channels during the past year. As so many of our members are resident overseas, these offer a tangible method of communication and connection. St Cross currently provides content on both Facebook and Twitter and image galleries on Flickr as well as five region specific networks on LinkedIn. We hope to build upon these virtual beginnings to create a series of regional networks for our Alumni. For more information, please see the College website: www.stx.ox.ac.uk/alumni.

The past year has seen a few changes to the staffing of the Alumni Relations, Communications & Development Office. In May this year the Communications Manager, Julia Wigg, departed to pursue new challenges and we thank her for her significant contribution to the College during her time here. We have since been joined by Monica Esposito as Communications Assistant and Alice Haylock as the Development and Database Assistant; I’m sure you will join me in wishing them a warm welcome.

ARCHIVIST’S REPORT

With the 50th Anniversary of the College soon approaching, a concerted effort is being made to locate, organise, and catalogue the backlog of college records and documents that have accumulated over the years. The initial phase of this 50th Anniversary Archiving Project concerned the archival preservation of student records from the years 1966 through 2007. That phase of the project is now complete, with the records closed and stored in a purpose-built, secure storage area. Some paper records of students from 2008 onwards will also be archived, but work has not yet begun on reducing those files in light of the electronic records that came into use at this time. Tim Pound (MCR) has now taken responsibility for archiving the electronic records for dossiers from 2008 onwards; he has been appointed Archives Registrar and works at the computer in the Archives Office.

Attention is currently focused upon sorting and cataloguing boxes of more general papers that have accumulated in the College offices. These include records of former fellows, committee papers, financial records, architectural plans, and a wide variety of other materials. For example, one document that came to light is a copy of the menu from the very first Founders’ Feast, held in Trinity College on the 9 December 1965. Not only is this document a very significant memento of an historic moment in the early days of the College, but on the back are the signatures of 21 of the College’s founding Fellows.
The work on the 50th Anniversary Archiving Project is being carried out primarily by a dedicated team of three volunteers: Lesley Forbes (Former Fellow and MCR), Glenda Abramson (Emeritus Fellow), and Peter Benton (Emeritus Fellow). They work Tuesday and Wednesday of every week, either in the van Heyningen Room or in the St Cross Room. The archivist usually joins them one day a week.

A small committee has also been established to organise and oversee the production of a commemorative volume to mark the 50th anniversary of the College in 2015. The committee consists of Mark Jones (Master), Diarmid MacCulloch (Fellow), Jan-Georg Deutsch (Fellow), Tim Pound (MCR), and the archivist, who at the moment acts as chair. Boxes of miscellaneous copies of the College Record that were unearthed in the College offices recently enabled the archivist to put together three complete sets, and one nearly-complete set, of the Record. One of these has been given to the Master to have in his office. The other three sets were distributed to the other committee members for their use in generating ideas for the anniversary publication. There is a complete set also available to the archivist in the Archives Office. The committee met twice to consider in general terms the nature of the proposed publication, and will be meeting more frequently as 2015 draws nearer.

In the midst of all this work, the computer in the Archives crashed several times and could not support the larger, high-resolution, screen that was needed to make the archiving of electronic files easier. Consequently, a new computer and screen was installed this past week, with some updated software.

A few donations came into the Archive since the last report: Peter Benton (Emeritus Fellow) donated some good-quality prints of photographs he had taken of Founding Fellows and also of some past events (including the installation of an Assessor). Diarmuid MacCulloch (Fellow) donated a variety of newspaper clippings and also an excellent photograph taken at the investiture of his knighthood. An anonymous donor left the Archives a nearly complete run of the College Record and a photograph of the St Giles frontage of the College.

With the 50th Anniversary approaching, we are particularly grateful for any donations of documents, reminiscences, and photographs from earlier years at St Cross. All donations will be welcomed by the College Archives and duly acknowledged in the Record.

ART COMMITTEE REPORT

A professional photographic record of all the College watercolours and other paintings and prints was undertaken early in 2012. This not only gave us a record for insurance purposes but also provided high quality images to be used in a forthcoming illustrated version of Derek Roe’s account of the Blackman Collection of watercolours that he has kindly agreed to produce.

In addition, eleven oil paintings held by the College were photographed for the records of the Public Catalogue Foundation. The PCF is a registered charity that is photographing as many works as possible in the nation’s oil painting collection (i.e., those held by institutions) and making them accessible through a series of printed catalogues and the Your Paintings website, which has been created in partnership with the BBC.

It is intended that all the other artworks in the College, including the bronzes and any remaining prints and lithographs, will also be photographed and catalogued this year to produce a complete and up to date art inventory. The College’s silver has already been photographed by Kate Scott and Derek Roe and an account of it completed by Professor Roe. Jennifer Opie’s account and catalogue of the College’s Treverton Collection ceramics has been completed and is illustrated with photographs again taken by Professor Roe. Copies of these two documents, and others relating to the College’s Art Collections, are available in the Saugman Common Room.

The aquatint by Thomas Daniell ‘The Mausoleum of Mucdoom Shah Dowlut at Moneah on the River Son’, (1796) donated by Andrew Goudie, has been returned following expert conservation and now hangs in the St Cross Room.

Conservation is an ongoing concern of the Committee. One such concern is the cloudiness affecting some of the UV resistant glass of several watercolours. Most that were affected in this way were reglazed several years ago but it appears that some others may now need similar work. The portrait of Professor Goudie, unveiled last year, is now due to receive its final coat of varnish and this will be applied shortly.

The Art Committee Report for 2010-2011 noted that seven oriental rugs belonging to the College, once thought to be lost, had been located in a storage cupboard in the student quarters. There was no suitable space in which to display these items and the committee has since taken advice as to their future. Our inquiries as to the origin of the rugs have so far proved fruitless and any information relating to them would be most welcome. The Committee feels that one option would be to sell them, if no-one knows of any reason why this should not be done.

Framed photographs of four of our Founding Fellows — Ruth van Heyningen, Fred Hodcroft, Alan Jones and Dennis Britton, taken and donated by Peter Benton, now hang in the administration corridor. A map of Oxfordshire has recently been donated to the College by Linda Hart.

It was agreed with the Sports Fellow, Dr Lorenzo Santorelli, that a space should be found in the bar corridor for photographs of current college sports teams. Sport is strong in the College both at college team and University level and it was felt appropriate that it should have more public recognition.

The Committee welcomed the Master to its membership at the start of the year, in place of his predecessor Andrew Goudie, and has been grateful for his expert advice. Dr Jon Whiteley has continued to act as Chairman throughout the period covered by this report.

Peter Benton
The end of year accounts to 31st July 2012 illustrate that the College’s total net assets increased from £11.25m in July 2011 to £11.7m. The Endowment Fund had a challenging year in the context of global financial difficulties and the value remained steady, dropping slightly from £5.783m to £5.733m (although dividends and interest arising increased by £15k). The majority of donations and legacies received were unrestricted and the Governing Body chose to allocate them to the Building Fund for the West Wing; the latter fund stood at £2m at year end following a transfer of £1.5m from the College’s general reserves.

The Vice Master hosted a splendid Governing Body Dinner at the end of Trinity Term to thank the retiring Master, Professor Andrew Goudie for 8 years of service to the College. On behalf of the Fellowship he presented a case of very fine, very old Pomerol wines which are a particular favourite of the former Master. Professor Goudie retired at the end of August 2011 and the College welcomed Sir Mark Jones, former Director of the Victoria & Albert Museum as the new Master. Over the course of the year, the College bade farewell to Bursary Administrator Faye Hatton and welcomed Gordon Fernie who joined us after many years’ service in the RAF as her replacement. Nicola Murphy was promoted to the role of Accommodation and Facilities Manager (working on a part time basis) and Emma Farrant transferred into the Bursary as Accommodation Assistant; the new, afforded structure was designed to offer more support to students. Flori Olteanu took up the role of part time Events Assistant and has worked on both College and external events which has left more time for the Alumni Relations staff to focus on their main responsibilities. Unfortunately for us, Julia Wigg, Communications Manager decided to leave to take up free lance work at the end of May however we welcomed Alice Haylock to the new role of Development Assistant and Monica Esposito to the role of Communications Assistant in Trinity term. The Academic department recruited Karla Maria Perez-Blanco to provide temporary administrative support over the busy admission period.

The College secured a lease on Stone Mason House, Magdalen Road with 44 en-suite bedrooms which provided much needed extra space for its students. Comfortable accommodation situated close to the lively Cowley Rd has proved to be successful once students are settled in. This brought the total number of single study bedrooms offered by the College to 172 – there is also 1 flat and 1 suite of rooms for couples.

Over the course of the year the Saugman Common Room was refurbished on the advice of interior designer, Jill Treloggan, with new wooden doors, a new carpet, new soft cushions to link the colour schemes and new lamps; many College members have expressed their appreciation of the scheme. The bar received a fresh coat of paint and the large pillars were scaled back in size to provide more room. The Caroline Miles room received new furniture and students reported that they were very pleased with the new looks. The Crawford Miller flat has been refurbished with new furniture and a new kitchen and bathroom.

COMMON ROOM REPORT

This was my first year as President of Common Room and I want to pay tribute, first of all, to my predecessor Dr Fernanda Pirie for the smooth transition and her inspired view on how the Common Room should develop in the near future. The Common Room is overseen by a Committee (the Common Room Committee or CRC) in which Fellows, JRFs, Students, Members of Common Room and administrative staff are represented.

In my first year we implemented new voting regulations for the CRC so that there cannot be a “gridlock” in decision making and started a dialogue analysing the role of the CRC and what it should aim to achieve. This discussion may lead to a new constitution but should this be the case, the transition will be in discussion with the Executive Committee as well as the Governing Body of the College who will ultimately make a decision. Of course the more “evident” change was in the Common Room itself, which benefitted from a redecoration mid-way through the year! (See picture below)

During the Common Room Committee meetings I was again made to understand (if proof was needed) that the students of St Cross are its most valuable asset. The members of the Student Representative Committee were always extremely eloquent and efficient, with the intention of striving for the good of the College community as a whole. To be meeting such exciting people is a fantastic experience and I hope that we will continue in the same vein this year with the new cohort of student representatives.

Petros Ligoxygakis
President of Common Room

STUDENT REPRESENTATIVE COMMITTEE REPORT

The St Cross Student Representative Committee (SRC) is responsible for representing the views and interests of the College’s growing Junior Membership. With students from across the United Kingdom and elsewhere in Europe, and from the quattuor cardines mundi, St Cross probably has a more diverse community of international postgraduate students than any other Oxford College. This gives the work of the SRC a particular character.
The SRC is composed of several positions, some of which also have roles on the Common Room Committee. The President manages the activities of the Committee as a whole while the Vice-President organizes Freshers’ Week, manages several other projects, and supports the President as needed. The Secretary manages information and communication and the Treasurer oversees the budget. Two Social Representatives organize College social events and an External Representative addresses relations with the University and other Colleges. Male and Female Welfare Representatives care for the well-being of the Membership and work to strengthen the sense of College community. Sports and Societies Representatives oversee the activities of the College’s sports clubs and societies, and the Environment Representative promotes environmental matters and activities in the College. The LGBT Representative represents the interests of the College’s lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender community and the Arts Representative conducts cultural events and activities. Finally, the Health and Safety Representative ensures the safety of members at College events. The SRC has also created a new Quartermaster position, which will manage equipment and purchases in order to better make the resources of the College available to its Members.

The highlight of the College social calendar this year was the St Cross Summer Soirée, which was held on the 23rd June and for which the SRC received invaluable support from the student-led Soirée Committee. This incredibly popular event saw two hundred St Cross members and their guests treated to one of the most intense rainstorms of the entire summer - but that did not dampen our spirits in the slightest! We stayed warm and dry indoors, sipping cocktails, taking in a dazzling dance demonstration from the Oxford University Dance Club, and joining in the dancing ourselves with the twenty-piece live band, the Oxford University Jazz Orchestra. We had delicious canapés from our own beloved kitchens, amazing pastries from Chateau Gateau, and a couple of cocktails made just for us! The entire event was an absolute pleasure and will be remembered as a splendid and elegant evening. We encourage all College Members past and present to return next year!

DIRECTOR OF IT’S REPORT

The IT Group consists of the IT Manager, three IT student assistants, the Secretary, the Academic Administrator, the Bursar, and the Director of IT. The Group had met each term to review the IT regulations and strategy of the College.
The Group is well-connected to further committees at the College. The Director of IT reports to the Academic Committee once a term. Members of the IT Group attend student meetings and report back. In addition, the students can report problems or make suggestions to the generic email account itsupport@stx.ox.ac.uk that is accessed by the IT Manager and the IT student assistants. Furthermore, the IT Group had launched an annual IT survey, the first of its kind at St Cross. Its goal is to better understand the IT needs and the student satisfaction level with current IT facilities (wireless/wired Internet access, device setup, computer rooms, printing, IT support).

In the academic year 2011-2012, the key achievement of the IT Group had been a major upgrade of the College IT infrastructure, in particular the installation of forty new wireless access points at the College Main Site and Annexe; existing transmitters had been moved from the Main Site to Wellington Square and other College properties. This upgrade is in response to the increasing amount of modern devices such as smartphones, netbooks, and last-generation laptops that are used by College members and require wireless connectivity.

LIBRARIAN’S REPORT

Alumnus Collection

This year has seen a record number of donations to the Alumnus Collection of books written by members of the College. The wide range of topics testifies to the variety of academic interests in the College. It is also good to get books for the collection from junior members as well as from Fellows. This year there were donations from a current student, one who left a few years ago and one who was here in the early 1980s.

Other new books

There were 201 new books put into stock during the year. Apart from the Alumnus Collection titles the Library also received gifts of 93 books, many of them from students donating books, which they had found useful, for the benefit of future students.

Library Management System

The new system (Aleph) has been in use for the full academic year 2011-2012. There were some teething problems at first, which were to be expected. The more worrying situation is with the search programme SOLO (Search Oxford Libraries Online). At times the data available in Aleph did not seem to match the catalogue on SOLO, and I received a large number of complaints during Michaelmas Term. The people responsible for the system have worked hard and have changed things following complaints, but that has also caused problems as the interface changes frequently and this can be disconcerting for readers. Personally I am unhappy that when one searches for a particular title or edition using the ISBN SOLO returns several hits (a “cluster” in SOLO terminology) and I find this unhelpful. I think it is fair to say that SOLO is a “work-in-progress”.

Displays

The displays of New Books continued, matching the regular monthly lists emailed to all members of College. This display continues throughout the year and the other one varies from term to term. This year there were displays of books in the Alumnus Collection and Art and Architecture. The Michaelmas Term display is always on Study, Research and Writing techniques and is very popular with new students.
Induction Sessions

The induction sessions for new students on “An introduction to Oxford Library Services and Electronic Resources” were very crowded but, as usual, the people who attended were a minority of the group starting in 2011. I tried to make up for this by sending informative emails. There was also an experiment in Michaelmas Term encouraging students on the same course to suggest books which would be useful for them. The response was less than I had expected and the result was a period when there were more requests than usual, but this evened out over the course of the year so there were no more requests in total.

Library Assistant

The new Library Assistant was a doctoral student, Kimberly Marsh. She worked cheerfully and reliably on the tasks of processing new books, organising displays, shelving returned items and liaising with students.

SENIOR TUTOR & TUTOR FOR ADMISSIONS REPORT

The Admissions exercise at St Cross continued to flourish over the past year with 211 new students arriving in Michaelmas Term 2011 and the number of new MPhil and DPhil students having increased from 2010, which has led to an ongoing strengthening of the research community within the College. The College’s international diversity continued to thrive with the new intake of students in 2011 comprising 49% from overseas, 25% from the UK and 26% from the European Union. Last year the College had in the new student intake 48% men and 52% women.

The College was delighted to award for this year the inaugural Hélène La Rue Scholarship in Music to Anna Krause from the USA to support her DPhil in Music. Anna has just successfully completed her Master’s course in Music (Composition) at St Cross.

St Cross has also awarded several other scholarships to new students arriving in Michaelmas 2012 as follows:
The Scholarship in Anthropology was awarded to Katharine Wheater from the UK to support her DPhil;

The Scholarship in Archaeology was awarded to Elizabeth Stroud from Australia to support her DPhil;

The Scholarship in History was awarded to Arthur Asseraf from France to support his DPhil;

The Robin and Nadine Wells Scholarship was awarded to Rosina Savisaar from Estonia to support her studies for the MSc in Neuroscience, generously sponsored by one of our alumni, Robin Wells and his wife, Nadine.

In Michaelmas 2011, the College held its second Graduate Open Day, which was intended primarily for current undergraduates and Master’s students at Oxford, who might be considering doing a postgraduate degree. The Open Day went very well with a number of students across a wide variety of subjects looking around the College and speaking to both St Cross students and Fellows.

The College currently has almost 500 graduate students, of whom 17 are doing part-time graduate degrees. Trinity Term 2012 went well for the majority of students with 23 of our Master’s students (either MSt, MSc or MPhil) achieving a Distinction overall in their courses.

CATERING MANAGER’S REPORT

The last twelve months have proven to be an exceptionally busy year once again, and I am happy to report that the team in the kitchen handled the challenge very well.

Additional Special Dinners were added to the termly calendar and have on the whole, been very well attended. I think it is fair to say that the Black Tie Dinner towards the end of term is very much anticipated since we have had to put on two identical events to accommodate all of the attendees.

We celebrated a number of workplace anniversaries in terms of staff tenure during the last year with Chris Brook, our Sous Chef celebrating five years at St Cross in February. Laura Covarrubias (Front of House Assistant) completed 10 years in June and Anna Cardoso (Kitchen Assistant) rounded off the milestones with five years completed in September. All three received letters of appreciation together with High Street vouchers as a gesture of appreciation. It must also be said that perhaps the reason for our team stability is due to the influence of our head chef Robert Rudman who sees out 12 years so far at St Cross – quite an achievement in itself.

We are also delighted that Anna has stepped seamlessly into her promotion as Chef de Partie where she now oversees the production of the lunchtime salads and creations every day. This has allowed Robert the room to concentrate his efforts on refining the Dinner Menu cuisine as well as the ever increasing administration in running a busy department.

In recent weeks, we have set up our new Twitter feed (@StCrossKitchen) which is a collaboration between the kitchen brigade and the College communications team. Needless to say the chefs have been busy posting photos and recipes of the dishes they are cooking and we have had quite a a good response. We do encourage College members, staff and guests to use this medium for keeping in touch and communicating with us directly. That said, the Comments Book will remain in the Hall for those who feel paper and ink is the best form of communication.

MUSIC REPORT

On 6 December 2011, the faithful nucleus of old choir members was enriched as usual for the annual Carol Service by enthusiastic new recruits from the College, in Pusey Chapel. The choir was larger than ever before, and there was the customary standing-room only for the congregation in the service. All was much appreciated:
Bishop Jonathan for leading us and preaching, Fr Philip and Fr Mihai for prayers, the sidesmen from Pusey House, more numerous than in any previous year, and lighting things all over the place with practised ingenuity, all the readers (so audible and measured), and Peter Ward Jones as organist/conductor and all the choir who on exactly five hours’ communal practice in the College bar, got all the music together. Choir items had an ‘arrangement’ theme: the Sans Day Carol arranged by John Rutter, I saw three ships in David Willcocks’s arrangement; J.S. Bach adding his pennyworth to ‘O little one sweet’, Philip Ledger’s take on ‘Still, still, still’ (in the original German, of course): then in a burst of original composition, John Gardner set ‘Tomorrow shall be my Dancing Day’ and Sir Hubert Parry ‘Welcome Yule’. Our collection collectors Max and Anna Hamerow, who grow apace, succeeded in menacing-charming the congregation into producing an unprecedented amount of cash, £326.01 for our two good causes. Special thanks to Peter Lynam for assistance in organ accompaniment, to Alex Farquhar for joining a number of dots which had remained previously unacquainted with each other, and to Paul Wicking for much unobtrusive delivering of things. In Hilary Term 2012, the Musical Evening provided an ideal balance at just the right length for an enjoyable Hall afterwards. Mark McKerracher and University Morris dancers literally kicked things off with two Cotswold dances; Peter Ward Jones introduced Handel to the Strand with his customary keyboard verve; the Choir provided two English favourites, ‘The Ash Grove’ and ‘Linden Lea’. Ian Page wrung the audience’s withers with English folk-songs, and any withers unwrung were assaulted by Diarmaid MacCulloch in Ethelbert Nevin’s egregious masterpiece ‘The Rosary’. Henry (Ruodong) He was splendid on the piano, and all scenes were stolen by a thrilling finale in Donal Hill’s fiddle-playing, presenting Irish traditional jigs and reels with exhilarating skill and panache.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COMPETITION

The annual College Photographic Competition produced an excellent crop of entries. Fifteen entrants submitted 35 photographs, all of which aroused considerable interest when they were displayed at Fred’s Lunch on the 23rd March, 2012. The entries were judged by the whole Arts Committee and the winning entrant was awarded a bottle of Champagne by the Master and an invitation to Fred’s Lunch.

The winners were as follows:
1st prize  Zixi You, no 4  “Oxford hidden behind pub windows – 1&2”
2nd prize  Gioia Forster, no 20  Untitled
3rd prize  Anastasia Papanastasiou, no 16  “College Window”
          Anastasia Papanastasiou, no 18,  “St Cross Window”

DEVELOPMENT REPORT

St Cross College is extremely grateful for the support shown by its members in the last year. Donations received between 1st August 2011 and 31st July 2012 were at the highest level since the establishment of the Development Office in 2004, with a total of £385,284.06 raised. St Cross College would like to thank the following donors for their generosity during this period:

St Cross College would also like to thank the ten donors who wish to remain anonymous; their kindness and generosity is much appreciated.

We would like to thank all those who made a donation to the collections taken during the annual Christmas Carol Service part of which was in aid of the Hélène La Rue Scholarship Fund, and those who supported the Hélène La Rue Memorial Concert.

St Cross College is immensely grateful for the kindness and generosity of Mrs Estella Bradley and Miss Mary Tregear FBA, both of whom made substantial gifts to St Cross College in their wills.

Finally, the College would like to thank Mr Peter Benton, Dr Duncan Campbell, Dr Christina Clark-Kazak, Linda Hart, Professor James Pettifer, Mr Christopher Ryan and Dr Vernon Silver, all of whom made donations of art work or library books, which is greatly appreciated by St Cross.

OBITUARIES

Arthur David Petford (1931 – 2012)

David was born in Hampstead in 1931 and his family later moved to Shirley near Croydon. When the war broke out in 1939, he was evacuated to Redhill and his father’s firm went to Hindhead, not that far away. Later he went to boarding school, Midhurst Grammar School, where one of his notable achievements was to cause the school swimming pool to be emptied when he emerged from the water covered in spots. His Games report once said: “David has done some good work in the vegetable garden”. At the same time he gained a place at New College, Oxford to read Physics.
When he left school he went straight into the Air Force to do his National Service where he served in the Education Corps and played films to recruits on their square-bashing course.

In October 1951 he came up to Oxford and elected to do the Astronomy papers instead of Mechanics for the exams at the end of the 1st Year. This was entirely because he disliked the ‘physics of bending beams’.

He met Corinne at a Collection exam at the end of the 1st term and asked if she was short-sighted. This turned out to be because he could not read what was on the blackboards! He rowed in the Second Eight for New College in both Torpids and Eights, however this proved too time-consuming leaving little time for Corinne. So in the second year when there were no exams he spent the summer evenings in a New College punt instead. By the beginning of the 3rd year he was engaged to Corinne.

Before knowing whether or not he could stay on to do a DPhil, he joined a research team with Marconi working on the earliest ideas for transistors. However he was duly accepted to do a DPhil in the Clarendon Laboratory, working on semiconductors at very low temperatures. Before he finished his DPhil, he and Corinne got married and last Friday was the 55th anniversary of their wedding.

Because David had done astronomy in the 1st year and proved to be very competent at electronics, he was invited to take up a position in the Observatory to introduce some electronic methods for measurements that had previously been done by hand and eye. This led eventually to his becoming a member of the research staff of the Astrophysics Department, and he spent the rest of his working life happily engaged in developing and using instrumentation and computers for stellar research. David’s research took him abroad on a number of occasions including a six week trip to Canada for a total solar eclipse. The measurements were successful but he never actually saw the eclipse. Meanwhile, two lovely daughters had arrived, and David excelled himself by buying Amanda a beautiful little dress, later worn by his granddaughter Francesca, and buying Bryony some superb modern dungarees with previously-unknown snap-fasteners (easing the task of nappy-changing). The fact that David had not seen the eclipse was put right in 1999 when he and Corinne joined a Royal Astronomical Society trip to view the eclipse from Alderney.

Probably the most memorable year for all the family was that spent in Zermatt, Switzerland when David commuted daily up the Gornergrat mountain to the Oxford solar telescope, which he had been instrumental in designing and installing. Amanda and Bryony went to the German speaking village school and a life-long friendship was made with Stephanie and her family. David was a Fellow of St Cross College and was in fact Senior Fellow for three years, becoming an Emeritus Fellow when he took early retirement, although did not prevent him carrying on a number of computer-based projects.

David was a tower of strength in his unerring support of Corinne’s school activities. He made equipment for the A-level practicals, taught Corinne about computing, set up the first network at Headington School, and went on numerous Duke of Edinburgh Scheme expeditions (sleeping in B&Bs not in a tent). In the family, although he was seldom anxious to initiate activities, he was always happy to join in. Before getting married, David had little intention of travelling abroad but he and Corinne went on many foreign holidays. Even during his many years with Alzheimer’s, they visited a large number of cities, going to art museums, churches and cathedrals, and seeing Leonardo’s Last Supper in Milan and the Giottos in Padua. This has left Corinne with a wealth of happy memories.

He was a loving father, taking an active part in raising his daughters. Bryony particularly remembers the joy of him running down the garden, holding the back of her saddle as she learnt to ride her bike. Amanda remembers him helping her with electronics… including making her an interface for her to use her typewriter as a printer. He also escorted them down the aisle.

He loved his grandchildren and greatly enjoyed numerous family holidays in Pembrokeshire and Centerparcs. His grandchildren particularly remember his willingness to help them with projects ranging from paper engineering to kite flying.

Until last August David was able to live at home where Corinne had help from a wonderful carer, Steve, who came in three times a day. David spent time at Heathfield House Care Home in respite care and finally spent the last eight months living there. The staff made it home from home and the family will never forget the friendship, care and love they received, and are truly grateful. Corinne is especially grateful for her constant support from her family, St Andrew’s Church, Headington, and her many friends and colleagues.

It is worth quoting from the obituary of Prof Donald Blackwell who died in 2010: “In developing equipment for …. instrumental projects, Donald Blackwell was fortunate to have the collaboration of David Petford whose expertise in electronics and computing could be guaranteed to produce a working system to any desired prescription…”

David was very unassuming, a real gentleman at all times, lacking in ambition, happy in his work and with his family, very musical, very witty and actually very clever with an amazing general knowledge. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

Corinne Petford
Godfrey John Tyler (1929 – 2012)

Godfrey John Tyler was born in Clapham but moved to the Shirley area of Croydon at the age of 5. Both were built-up areas but his parents often took him on country walks and this stimulated a lifelong passion for nature. He also enjoyed working with his father in the garden. Both of these interests came together when he worked on farms in Gloucestershire and Kent for the first 2 years or so after leaving the Whitgift School. He studied agriculture at Wye College, a School of Agriculture in the University of London. He stayed on there as a research assistant, did a Masters at the London School of Economics and began lecturing at Wye in Agricultural Economics. This was followed by a two year period as an Economics Research Officer for the New South Wales Government in Sydney Australia. He returned to take up a post as lecturer in Bristol University. In 1968 he was appointed University Lecturer in the Institute of Agricultural Economics that had been established as a separate department in 1913. He was briefly Acting Director of the Institute on the sudden death of the previous Director, Ken Hunt and Acting Editor for the International Association of Agricultural Economists and a member of the Executive Committee of the Agricultural Economics Society. During this time he had regular extended consultancies with the UN Food and Agricultural Organisation in Rome, with field work in Somalia.

In 1970 he was elected as a Fellow of St Cross College. On his retirement in 1996, he was elected to an Emeritus Fellowship because of his active involvement in college life including some years as Senior Tutor and as President of Common Room.

He later said that he regretted that the early part of his career had been dominated by the emphasis on material goods. He was much happier when he was able to focus on poverty alleviation in developing world agricultural populations where there was much less stress on pure profit and more on increasing well being. This became a recurring theme in his professional work which lay mainly in the area of theoretical modelling of the agricultural economy, usually by means of the mathematical techniques of linear programming. A typical paper, published in 1993 and entitled “Alleviating Rural Poverty through Agricultural Growth”, argues that the modelling shows that equitable growth and redistributive measures would alleviate poverty more rapidly than “trickle down” investment from the top. His colleagues in Oxford also noted his extreme diligence with students, especially those from developing countries. The better ones emerged with an authority about agricultural matters that led several to posts of high responsibility throughout the world. One example was John Philpott, Chief Economic Advisor of the Chartered Institute of Personnel and Development.

Godfrey loved to take his daughters on walks in the countryside, binoculars in hand for birdwatching. He revelled in hearing birdsong in his garden or in the quiet of the countryside and campaigned vigorously to protect and maintain open country.
and rights of way. One daughter tells of how one day on a walk in the country, he was asked, none too politely, by a huntsman which way the fox had gone and had no hesitation in pointing in precisely the opposite direction. He was keen on sailing – he had a small yacht – or rowing, but never in a motorboat because that would disturb the sounds of nature. Another lifelong passion – music – started when Godfrey was very young. His father, a carpenter, clearly had a very good musical education since he was eventually appointed organist and choir master in Shirley, passed his knowledge on to his son. Godfrey started singing as a treble in the church choir at the age of 7 with his parents and, from the age of 18, he sang in various choral societies including the St Cross College Choir and the Oxford Bach Choir until he thought his voice was no longer good enough.

Ian Allan (1952-2012)

Ian Allan was born in Glasgow, studied microbiology at the University there, and completed his doctorate at the University of Birmingham. He worked for a time at the University of California and then took up a Lectureship at St. Cross. He had a life-long interest in the organism Chlamydia Trachomatis, which causes an infectious eye condition, mainly affecting those in developing countries. Ian was a gentle man with a wide range of interests. He is very sadly missed by his partner Angela, and his sister Kay.

Angela McCarthy
‘So what next?’ the BBC said to me once the bunting had been taken down and the ballroom hoovered after the launch-party for my TV series ‘A History of Christianity’. There followed a year of cheerful discussions, in which in the end, I got my own way for a second series (I’m slowly learning how to do this amid the veritable Byzantine Court that is the Beeb). I wanted to talk about Englishness, past, present and future. It wasn’t just to be a history of English religion, which could have been a bit bland, nor a discussion of Church and State, which makes you yawn just to hear the phrase, and which no-one would want to watch, including me. No: there is a real question: what has it meant to be English in history, what does it mean now, and what lessons can we draw from the past for the future? We did this in three episodes, an hour each, and they were broadcast this last March on BBC2: ‘How God made the English’.

The jokey title came to me in the bath, like all good ideas. It wasn’t just meant to annoy the Scots, Welsh and Irish; as my unpronounceable name indicates, my father’s family is Scots, so I would never wish to do that. It was meant to remind us all that English identity has been inextricably bound up in religion throughout English history. The English didn’t exist until a brilliant Northumbrian monk, the Venerable Bede, thought up the idea in the draughty library of the monastery at Jarrow in the early eighth century. He constructed Englishness out of the most important book in his life, the Bible, and he turned the image of the Kingdom of Israel which he found there into a blueprint for a united kingdom in an island full of squabbling warlords, Saxons, Angles and Jutes. There was then no united kingdom of England, nor for another century and more: only the united Church which had sprung out of the Catholic mission sent by Pope Gregory the Great. So God, or his monk Bede, really did make the English; and he manufactured them out of the Bible’s vision of the ancient Israelites.

Later, Henry VIII remade the English in order – as he saw it – to please God. Henry had quarrelled with the Pope for refusing to admit that the royal marriage to Catherine of Aragon was null and void. Catherine and most of the women of England also refused to admit it, but Henry was convinced that God was on his side, and in his egotistical fury, he broke with the Pope. This had a remarkable result. The English had previously been known as the Pope’s most loyal children in all Europe; that was what had made them English. Now King Henry and two out of his three children took the kingdom through a 180-degree turn: the English were now destined to be the people who hated the Pope the most in all Europe. In 1707, this Protestant England did a deal with another Protestant kingdom, Scotland, to create yet another new identity, Britain and Britishness. This fuelled an Empire which lasted until living memory, certainly my living memory, and that of my parents who both served in its army. Now the Empire has gone, and perhaps Britishness with it. What do we do next? What is Englishness now, as it emerges from under the shadow of Britishness? And what part will religion play in the changes this time?
There are just some of the stories and questions we brought you in this series. You might be surprised by the answer I offered at the end of Episode Three; I was certainly a little surprised that I was allowed to state my answer so forcefully (now you will have to find out what it was!). The question really matters. An anecdote to illustrate that: we thought of shooting the opening titles from a helicopter, hovering above a village green on which the village gathered to lay out a huge St George’s Flag. Then the villagers had a meeting, and decided that they didn’t want to do it. They thought that St George and his flag were now too associated with racist politics in the public mind, and they didn’t want people to think of them like that. That is sad, and it shows that we need to do some serious thinking about national identity and what it means to us.

I hope that some of you enjoyed the series and profited from it – alas no DVD, as the Beeb were too mean to pay for the world rights which would have cleared a DVD to be made from it. But look out for fragments on YouTube or for a second showing on the BBC. Not so much foreign travel this time, though we did get to France, Italy and Israel for reasons you will understand if you watched. And the Panama hat was back, a bit battered this time, because it’s the same hat – just made it to the end of filming. Note to self; for the series after this one, I will need to revisit Walters on the Turl.

The Rev. Diarmaid MacCulloch, Kt, is Professor of the History of the Church in Oxford University.
