1 Introduction to the Lecture List

The list of Lectures and Classes is divided into sections for General Lectures (Section 2), the Preliminary Examination (Section 3), the Final Honour School (Section 4), and Postgraduate Courses and Seminars (Section 5).

The sections dedicated to undergraduate courses are divided into sub-sections according to the type of course to which the lectures relate. Some courses of lectures are entered under more than one section or sub-section, if they are relevant to more than one course in the Preliminary Examination or the Final Honour School.

The section dedicated to postgraduate study and research is divided into sub-sections according to type of seminar/meeting and then by research period.

Undergraduates and graduates are recommended to read through all sections of the list and not to focus narrowly on those specifically designated for particular paper options. Lectures relevant to History may also appear on other faculties' lecture lists, which can be accessed through the University website: <http://www.ox.ac.uk/students/academic/guidance/lectures>. Students in Joint Schools are particularly referred to the lists for their other subject (see 3.2 below), but History undergraduates are also encouraged to browse them according to their particular interests.

1.1 Version

There may be late changes and amendments to this Lecture List. For an up-to-date version, please check WebLearn (<https://weblearn.ox.ac.uk/portal/hierarchy/humdiv/history>).

This version was last updated: 14-Jan-19

1.2 Attendance

Many lectures cover courses for which students will be taking tutorials in the same term, but some lecture-courses will take place in a different term from the tutorials, whether later or earlier. Students are encouraged to ensure that they have identified lectures relevant to them. This may particularly apply to lectures for British and European and World History, but also in Trinity Term to a range of other courses. Students are also encouraged to attend any lectures which catch their interest, for their own sake or to guide them in future choices of courses or topics, including for their theses.

Non-members of the University may not attend university lectures (unless they are announced as open to the general public) without payment of a fee, otherwise than by personal invitation of the lecturer concerned. Persons who are neither reading for a qualification of this University nor otherwise exempt under special arrangements for certain categories of non-members, and who wish to attend lectures in any term, should apply to the Fees Clerk, University Offices, Wellington Square, Oxford OX1 2JD, who will provide information on the fee required. Senior visiting scholars from other universities who wish to attend lectures, seminars, or classes should normally approach the lecturer concerned directly, and not the Fees Clerk.

1.3 Timing of Lectures

Lectures begin on the first possible day after the beginning of Full Term (Sunday, 13 January) and run in Weeks 1-8 of term unless otherwise stated.

Events shown on this list are generally one hour long unless otherwise stated. Lectures will begin five minutes after the hour and finish at five minutes before the next hour.

1.4 Key to Symbols

^o = Open to any university member to attend at any time

^A = Open to members of the university upon application; admission at the discretion of the convenor

^x = (normally) restricted to members of the university taking the appropriate paper.

Lectures are listed in the following format:

Lecture Title	Lecturer	Day and Time	Location
----------------------	-----------------	---------------------	-----------------

Where individual lecture topics and lecturers are listed below the main title of the lecture circus, the dates of the individual lectures are specified.

2 General Lectures

2.1 Special Lectures

Applying various endowments given for the purpose, the University invites distinguished scholars to give series or individual special lectures, on topics current to their research or of general interest. Historians from professors to undergraduates attend these lectures, which are also open more widely, and students are strongly encouraged to take the opportunity to hear what are often the first fruits of new research, which will later become important articles and books.

5 Postgraduate Courses and Seminars

Research Students in Modern History (particularly Probationer Research Students and candidates for the M.St. in Historical Research) are reminded that they are required to attend the ‘core’ seminar relevant to their period or area of study, and that they are encouraged to attend optional subject classes for master’s programmes in History relevant to their area of research. All participants in such classes will be expected to prepare themselves for each session in the same way as those who take the class as part of their registered programme.

Students on taught courses are advised that offerings listed in the ‘research seminars’ section may be relevant to their course of study, particularly the ‘core’ seminars in the subject area of their intended course dissertation.

5.1 Research Seminars

These seminars are primarily devoted to the presentation and discussion of research findings. Papers are usually given by a mixture of external and internal speakers, including graduate students. Research seminars are divided by period on this lecture list for ease of reference.

Please see <https://www.history.ox.ac.uk/research-seminars> for detailed seminar schedules. If you cannot find a seminar schedule on the website, please email comms@history.ox.ac.uk in the first instance.

5.2.1 Induction meetings and library sessions

General – Week 0:

The timetable and bookings for library inductions at the Bodleian, RSL, VHL, etc. is on the HFL's website at <http://www.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/history/training/PGtraining>

Specific courses – Week 0

There are no induction meetings for specific courses in Week 0

Term time programme – Weeks 1-8:

The graduate training programme can be found on the HFL's website at <http://www.bodleian.ox.ac.uk/history/training/PGtraining>

5.2.2 Training Seminars

Primarily concerned with the transmission of specific skills or knowledge to graduates in a structured format.

Except where individual weekly topics are identified on this list, regular attendance will be expected.

New and continuing students are also urged to attend appropriate WISER sessions: (Workshops in Information Skills and Electronic Resources) <http://ox.libguides.com/workshops>

5.2.3 Language Opportunities

The History Graduate Office offers some language classes in conjunction with the Language Centre (<http://www.lang.ox.ac.uk/>). Usually, new graduates sign up for these before the start of their course, but current graduates are also welcome to register their interest by contacting the Graduate Office.

Various levels of teaching are offered in this context (organised as demand justifies), from Reading classes tailored to Historians (mainstream European languages), to standard Language Centre tuition in a wide range of languages (http://www.lang.ox.ac.uk/courses/lasr_guide.html), plus opportunities for self-study using the Language Centre's resources and library. History graduates can in some cases also participate in classes for Oriental and South Asian Languages, organised by the Faculty of Oriental Studies (<http://www.orinst.ox.ac.uk/>).

5.3 Course Specific Seminars

The seminars and classes listed in the sections below are designed for M.St., M.Sc., and M.Phil. students in History and associated areas of study. Regular attendance will be expected. Persons not reading for these degrees, including undergraduates in History and its associated Joint Schools, may attend the seminars and classes but are asked to seek prior permission from the seminar Convenor.

Any such participants in classes will be expected to prepare themselves for each session in the same way as those who take the class as part of their taught programme.
